Train to be an English language teacher

Introduction

Meet some of the team

Jill Manwaring
Teacher Training Course Coordinator

"I help you decide on the best training options for you. My areas of special interest are teacher development and materials design."

David Murphy
Teacher Trainer

"I have expertise in recruitment, teaching abroad and course planning."

Paul Mellor
Teacher Trainer

"My areas of special interest are aviation English and the phonology of International English."

Tim Lewis
Teacher Trainer

"My specialist area is designing bespoke courses for specialist groups of English language students and for teachers wishing to broaden their knowledge of ELT methodology."

The Anglo-Continental Educational Group is one of the world's leading teaching organisations. Anglo-Continental is an approved Training Centre for the University of Cambridge Certificate in English Language Teaching to Adults (CELTA). Full-time and Part-time Courses are available.

The Centre's Training Course for the Cambridge Certificate in CELTA provides pre-service training for those who wish to enter the profession and have had little or no formal training or experience.

The Foundation in English Language Teaching is intended to provide a firm grounding in language awareness and teaching methodology, providing the basic skills for English language teaching and assisting potential CELTA candidates in their preparation. For those not yet sure whether English language teaching is for them, this course is a way to help you decide. A TEFL Taster Day can also help with decision-making, providing a glimpse of a teacher's life in a busy language school.

Foundation in English Language Teaching Courses

The Course

Each session will focus on different aspects of language awareness, classroom management, lesson planning and the methodology of teaching the four language skills of speaking, listening, reading and writing. Instruction methods will include trainer presentations, trainee presentations, group work and discussions, together with homework in the form of short research projects.

On the final session, trainees will take the Cambridge TKT module in 'Language background to language learning and teaching'. This is a multiple choice test which will grade your knowledge. Results are reported in 4 bands:

Band 1 - Limited knowledge of TKT areas

Band 2 - Basic but systematic knowledge of TKT areas

Band 3 - Breadth and depth of knowledge of TKT areas

Band 4 - Extensive knowledge of TKT areas. It tests a candidate's knowledge of the language systems needed by teachers for planning and teaching their lessons and tests knowledge of how the different features of English work from a teaching perspective. The test also focuses on the teacher's awareness of the language needs of learners and the difficulties involved in learning a second language.

The course provides a firm grounding in Language Awareness and Teaching Methodology. Combined with the Cambridge ESOL Teaching Knowledge Test module, 'Language and background to language learning and teaching' it may help you to get a teaching post in a school that does not require the CELTA (Cambridge Certificate in English Language Teaching to Adults) qualification.

Above all it provides excellent preparation for the CELTA, particularly for those with little knowledge of English language terms and concepts, or classroom experience.

Additional Information

Students who attend a FELT Course will receive a £100 discount if they enrol on a CELTA Course at Anglo-Continental within one year.

Employment Prospects

Schools recognised by the British Council require their teachers to have a first degree in any subject and a recognised ELT qualification such as the Cambridge CELTA or Trinity College Certificate in TESOL. The Foundation in ELT is intended as preparation for further training. Schools which are not recognised may accept evidence of participation on the FELT as sufficient for temporary work, although this cannot be guaranteed.

- have a standard of education which would allow them to follow the course, typically Level 2 or above.
- have competence in english, both written and spoken, that enables them to follow the course.

B Additional Note

Completion of the Foundation in ELT does not guarantee acceptance on the Anglo-Continental CELTA course. A separate application and interview will be required.

CELTA

Full-Time and Part-Time Courses

Anglo-Continental Teacher Training Centre provides full-time and part-time CELTA Courses.

Your Course

The courses concentrate on methodology and practice rather than theory. They also show participants how they can extend their skills, experience and effectiveness after completion of the course.

Instruction covers:

- Learners and teachers and the teaching and learning context
- Language analysis and awareness
- Language skills : reading, listening, speaking and writing
- Planning and resources for different teaching contexts
- Developing teaching skills and professionalism

Methods of instruction include:

- Intensive sessions of EFL methodology
- Observation of lessons taught by experienced teachers
- Teaching practice under the supervision of Anglo-Continental teacher-trainers
- Detailed analysis and discussion of individual performance
- Reading and writing assignments and private study

Assessment

- Continuous assessment of professional performance both in and out of the classroom to meet required criteria
- Successful completion of written work set during the course

Employment

Anglo-Continental regards the Cambridge Course as an important source of trained teachers, and whenever possible offers subsequent employment to successful participants.

Notes

A Entry Requirements

- Course participants are required:
- to be at least 18 years old on the date of commencement of the course
 - to have a standard of education which would allow entry to Higher Education in the country where they were educated, typically this would be a minimum of 2 'A' levels or equivalent
 - to have competence in English, both written and spoken, that enables them to follow the course and complete all the assessed elements successfully
 - to have an appropriate basic awareness of English language terms and concepts.

An interview with a Course Tutor will be necessary prior to acceptance. These Courses are very popular and often become fully booked very quickly, therefore, if you have a preferred date for your Course it is advisable for you to apply well in advance.

All participants must provide proof of identity and nationality (passport or birth certificate) at the start of the course. This includes British nationals.

B Additional Note

The full-time University of Cambridge CELTA course is highly intensive in nature and some people may find it challenging. Experience has shown that additional factors outside the course, such as bereavement, sickness in the family or other personal problems strongly disadvantage participants and cannot be taken into consideration by tutors in the overall assessment.

The part-time University of Cambridge CELTA course requires a commitment to background reading, assignments and lesson-planning.

Any disability which may affect teaching performance, such as poor hearing, MUST be mentioned at interview, as must any medical conditions which may affect your participation or that of your colleagues.

General information

Anglo-Continental Equal Opportunities Policy

Courses provided by Anglo-Continental are based on the principle of open and equal opportunities for all, irrespective of gender, marital status, sexual orientation, creed, colour, race, ethnic origin, age or disability.

The principle is promoted in all aspects of course provision including:

- statements of eligibility for entry on all courses that are based solely on academically relevant criteria
- the methods of recruitment, selection and training of all those working for or on behalf of Anglo-Continental

Review procedures ensure that all aspects of the provision of courses are, and remain, non-discriminatory.

School and national holidays

Anglo-Continental schools are closed:

24 December 2011 to
2 January 2012 for 1 week

22 December 2012 to
6 January 2013 for 2 weeks

Anglo-Continental schools are also closed on official national holidays declared by the British Government. Those scheduled for 2012 are: 6 April, 9 April, 7 May, 4 June, 5 June and 27 August.

If your entry date coincides with an official holiday, your accommodation will still be reserved for you from the Sunday before your course commences, and we would advise you to plan to arrive on that day. Your course will begin with the entry test on the next working day following the holiday.

No compensation, fee reductions, refunds, credit, additional lessons or extension of the course can be given for days when the school is closed because of official holidays.

Language and Methodology of English Teaching Plus Optional Teaching Knowledge Test (TKT/CLIL) Modules

If you are a non-native teacher of English whose level of English is not equivalent to that of an educated native speaker, you may be interested in our summer teachers' courses which enable you to learn new ideas and develop your own English language skills. The course also gives you the opportunity to take modules of the Cambridge Teaching Knowledge Test (TKT). If you would like further details about these courses, please contact us or visit the website at www.anglo-continental.com

Aviation English Teachers

Anglo-Continental Aviation English Division offers Teaching Methodology Courses for Aviation English Teachers in line with ICAO language proficiency requirements. If you would like further details about these courses, please contact us or visit the website at www.aviation-english-division.com

Postgraduate Diploma in Aviation Language Teaching and Assessment

To be introduced in 2012 and offered in partnership with Plymouth University, this formal professional qualification aims to provide continuing professional development opportunities related to teaching in the field of Aviation Language. The programme consists of four modules:

- Aviation Language within the Aviation Industry
- Aviation Language Teaching Methodology
- Aviation Language Course Design
- Formal Rating and Assessment in Aviation Language

CELTA Pre-Interview Task

(Please complete on a separate sheet - max. 80 words per answer)

This task is designed to help you think about some of the qualities required of an English language teacher, and therefore help you to decide whether this career suits you.

1. How would you like learners to perceive you?
2. Assuming that adult learners of English are motivated, what steps would you take to maintain that motivation during a course?
3. Think of a learning experience that you have had (it may be a foreign language, but it could equally be learning to drive, using a computer and so on). Describe one or two things that you enjoyed and one or two things that you didn't enjoy about the experience.
4. Describe what you think would be your strengths as an English language teacher and any areas that you feel you may find difficult.

Application

Anglo-Continental Training Courses for the Cambridge CELTA and Foundation in English Language Teaching (FELT) are provided in accordance with these conditions and specifications issued by the Anglo-Continental Teacher Training Centre.

The criteria for admission to the CELTA courses are as specified by the University of Cambridge, supplemented by any policy or restrictions imposed by the school. The criteria for admission to the FELT courses are as specified by the school. An enrolment does not become valid until it has been confirmed in writing by Anglo-Continental.

Anglo-Continental reserves the right to cancel or withhold acceptance of an application, at its discretion, if incorrect information is supplied by or on behalf of the applicant, or if such action is deemed necessary in the interests of the applicant or Anglo-Continental.

Fees

When an application is accepted by Anglo-Continental, an invoice including Value Added Tax (VAT), if applicable, is presented together with provisional confirmation of the application. The total fees or a non-refundable deposit of £100 is payable on the participant's acceptance for the course.

Only when the total fees or deposit have been received will a place be reserved. Payment of the total fees must be made not later than 28 days prior to the commencement of the course. If acceptance is confirmed less than 28 days before the course commencement date, the full fees become payable immediately. Cheques should be made payable to "Anglo-Continental".

Anglo-Continental reserves the right to make fee adjustments at any time prior to receipt of payment as a result of changes in the rate of VAT or other factors beyond its control.

The number of places on teacher training courses is strictly limited. In the event of cancellation by the participant between the date of acceptance and the date of course commencement, no refund of fees can be made.

No refunds can be given in the event of withdrawal from the course after its commencement, or for late arrival, early departure, or failure to make use of any of the facilities or activities of the course.

Attendance and Participation

Course participants are expected to attend the entire course. They cannot be considered for the award if they attend less than 80% of the course, fail to complete their teaching practice, or written assignments. Failure to attend may lead to withdrawal of the facilities of the course, and in such circumstances no refund of fees will be given.

Accommodation

The fee for the first week in homestay accommodation includes a non-refundable administration charge to cover the cost of selection, reservation and administration.

Any request to change or leave accommodation, either separately or in conjunction with the curtailment of a course, must be made to Anglo-Continental at least two weeks before the date of the proposed move and approved before the change is made. Failing this, accommodation fees are payable in lieu of notice. Accommodation fees continue to be payable for any periods of absence during the course.

Photographs and film

During our courses, we sometimes take photographs and film footage, some of which may be incorporated into future publicity material. If you do not wish to appear in any promotional publications, please advise us in writing before the start of your course.

Liability and insurance

Anglo-Continental, its Representatives and staff will not be liable for any loss, damage, illness or injury to persons or property however caused, except where such liability is imposed by statute. It is the student's responsibility to take out personal insurance against all such risks, including inability to attend or continue a course and for the payment of medical expenses.

Force majeure

It shall be a fundamental condition of the contract between the student and Anglo-Continental or its Representatives that neither Anglo-Continental nor its Representatives shall be in any way liable to the student in the event of any service contracted to be supplied by them becoming impossible to supply by reason of industrial dispute or other cause outside their control.

Data protection

To ensure that your course at Anglo-Continental meets your requirements we and, if appropriate, the Anglo-Continental Representative in your own country will need to use the information you provide (such as your personal data and details of any special requirements) in order to process your enrolment.

We must pass your information on to those involved in providing you with services relating to your stay at Anglo-Continental, such as your reservation of accommodation and transfer services. The information may also be provided, if required, to security or credit-checking organisations, customs and the UK Border Agency as required by UK law.

Please note that where your information is held by an Anglo-Continental Representative, it will be subject to your Representative's own data protection policy and their country's national law.

Validity of conditions

These Conditions of application are valid from 1 January 2012 and are subject to English law. The English language version is legally binding in all cases.

Anglo-Continental reserves the right to waive or adjust the specifications of a course, which may include age limits, without prior notification.
